ROSEBEN BEATS

Neck and Neck Race With San Catalina Feature at Bennings Yesterday.

FIVE JUVENILES RUN STAKE

Westown First in Steeplechase Leading Gold Van and Croxton-Other Results.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
WASHINGTON, April 4.—By far the most exciting contest of the meeting was that seen at Bennings to-day in the fourth race. It was really a race between Roseben and Santa Catalina, Reseben looked the fitter horse. His opponent appeared to some close observers to be a trifle tender in her warm up. She Was, nowever, an odg on favorite. Roschen, as in their previous meeting, gradually moved from the filly during the first quarter, but just as gradually she began to hold him as the last three furlongs were begun. Fuller turned wide with Roseben and this caused Santa Catalina to run wide also. The young filly gradually reduced Roseben's slight lead, Half a furlong from home Roseben was no more than a few inches in front and Fuller redoubled his already vigorous efforts. In spite of all he could do, it was not until he was within the shadow of the judge's stand that Roseben had gained a slight advactage and the two racers passed the judges with Roseben's head in front and parily turned side ways to the right, it was said by some that Fuller had the "leg lock," on Baird. The intter claimed a feril, but the stewards djsmissed the charge.

"Dave" Johnson was here to see Roseben's hard won victory and got as good as 9 to 5 in some of the betting.

Running of Juveniles. Roseben, as in their previous meeting,

Running of Juveniles.

The two-year-old race was a public preliminary to the Washington Nursery, to be run on Saturday. Five juveniles engaged in the stake run in to-day's race and it was won by August Belmont's Crossways and Lucy Cross, the royally bred daughter of Octagon, who is not engaged in the nursery. The real good thing was O. L. Richard's Old Guard, but he was unplaced. The 25 to 1 Spot Away, owned by R. Bradley, was second and the highly touted filly Headway, third.

ond and the highly touted filly Headway, third.

The first race was between the pair, Preen and Monte Carlo, Preen stopping rather suddenly in the final hundred yards. Weirdsome was third.

The Veiled Lady at 10 to 1, owned by the Littlefield, won the third race, the favorite, Tootsey Mack, just getting second place in the last stride from Liberia. Belle Dixon was practically left at the chase, leading by a long margin all the way. The favorite, Croxton, fell and his fockey was injured. Summary.

THE WEBER COMPANY MOST MIRTHFUL YET

The Audience at the Academy Laughed Until Their Sides Ached.

Fun fairly ran riot at the Academy last night. The audience became completely demoralized, and laughed at Joe Weber, Marie Dressler, Charles Bigelow and all the others until they rocked to and fro in their seats. There was no use to try to remain dignified, for it just couldn't be done. When little Joe Weber got

In their seats. There was no use to try to remain dignified, for it just couldn't be done. When little Joe Weber got langled up in a chair and couldn't find his vest, the audience fairly screamed, and some among them were bordering on hysteria.

The chorus girls were the jauntiest, smartest and prettlest lot that have danced upon the boards of the Academy for many a day. There have been show girls as pretty, but then those of last night possessed an exuberance of spirit that was manifest in every look and every movement.

Marie Draessler, with such a chorus at her back, would have been fully able to have provided a full evening's entertuinment. She was great, this not beling intended as a special allusion to her size. There was plenty of her to go around. Her song, "A Great Big Girl Like Mewas rendered after a fashion all her own Charles Bigelow was given plenty of walking exercise in being forced to walking exercise in being forced the turn to the footlights haif a dozen times or more to take encores to his song, "I'm So Lonesome. The Street Singer. The Street Singer.

Those who want variety in their theatrical amusements, and who don't think that the play is the thing, after all, will find it this week in 'The Street Singer' forms of entertainment in this production to suit anyone Melodrama and musical comedy predominate, however, and as both of these are popular with the Bijou patrons. The Street Singer' is an admirable offering at that house.

The audience yesterday thoroughly enjoyed the production.
